Important

These terms govern use of the NGPFA website. Programme enrolment, fees, attendance, conduct, travel and cancellation arrangements may be governed by separate programme or partner terms.

1. About these terms

These Website Terms of Use apply when you access or use the website operated by Next Generation Pro Football Academy Ltd, trading as NGPFA. By using the website, you agree to these terms. If you do not agree, you should stop using it.

Next Generation Pro Football Academy Ltd is registered in England and Wales under company number 10564251. Registered office: 65 Gales Drive, Crawley, United Kingdom, RH10 1QA. Contact: academy@ngpfa.com; +44 7375 357123.

2. Age and parental oversight

The website contains information for young people as well as adults. A person under 18 should use application and enquiry functions with the knowledge and involvement of a parent or guardian. Anyone under 15 must have a parent or guardian submit an application on their behalf.

3. Website purpose

The website provides general information about NGPFA, its programmes, pathways, partnerships, impact, opportunities and application processes. Website information is not a binding offer unless NGPFA expressly states otherwise in writing.

Separate written terms, consent forms, partner rules and safeguarding arrangements may apply to a particular programme, school, college, tour, camp or service. If there is a conflict, the specific written terms for that activity take priority for that activity.

4. Applications and outcomes

- Submitting an enquiry or application does not guarantee acceptance, selection, a place, funding or eligibility.
- Participation does not guarantee a trial, scholarship, professional contract, educational place, employment or any other progression outcome.

- Selection and progression may depend on performance, conduct, attendance, eligibility, availability, programme requirements and decisions made by independent schools, colleges, clubs, scouts, governing bodies or other third parties.
- Statistics, testimonials, case studies and examples describe past or collective outcomes and are not promises that another participant will achieve the same result.
- NGPFA may verify information supplied and may reject or withdraw an application where information is materially inaccurate, misleading or incomplete.

5. Accuracy and changes

We aim to keep the website accurate and useful, but content may become incomplete or out of date. Programmes, partners, staff, venues, schedules, selection criteria, costs and opportunities may change. You should confirm important information directly with NGPFA or the relevant partner before relying on it.

We may change, suspend or remove any part of the website without notice where reasonably necessary.

6. Permitted use

You may view, download or print reasonable extracts for personal, non-commercial information purposes. Schools, colleges, clubs, media organisations and other bodies may reproduce NGPFA material only with prior written permission and subject to any conditions we specify.

7. Prohibited use

You must not:

- copy, republish, sell, license or commercially exploit website content, training material, educational material, databases or branding without permission;
- use the NGPFA name, logos or materials in a way that suggests endorsement, partnership or authority that has not been granted;
- impersonate NGPFA, its staff, partners or participants;
- scrape, harvest, mine or systematically extract website content or personal information;
- submit false, malicious, unlawful, abusive, discriminatory, defamatory or misleading information;
- attempt to gain unauthorised access, interfere with security, introduce malware, overload systems or disrupt the website;
- use the website to contact, target, groom, exploit or harass a child, participant, staff member or other person;
- use website information for unsolicited marketing, recruitment or scouting without an appropriate lawful basis and permission; or
- encourage or assist another person to do any of the above.

8. Intellectual property

Unless stated otherwise, NGPFA owns or is licensed to use the website design, text, graphics, logos, programme names, photographs, films, training and educational materials, databases and other content. All rights are reserved.

Third-party names, logos, images and materials remain the property of their respective owners. Nothing on the website grants a licence except the limited personal-use permission expressly stated in these terms.

9. User submissions and forms

The website does not currently provide public accounts, comments or uploads. Information submitted through an enquiry or application form must be accurate and authorised. You remain responsible for ensuring that you have authority to provide information about another person, including a child or emergency contact.

Personal information is handled as described in the Privacy Notice. Media, safeguarding and programme permissions are dealt with separately and are not created merely by using the website.

10. Links and embedded services

The website may link to or embed content from schools, colleges, football bodies, social media platforms and other third parties. NGPFA does not control third-party websites, their availability, content, privacy practices or security. A link does not necessarily mean that NGPFA endorses every statement, product or service on the destination website.

11. Availability, security and viruses

We take reasonable steps to operate the website securely, but we do not guarantee uninterrupted, error-free or virus-free access. You are responsible for using suitable device security, backups and browser settings. We may restrict or block access where needed to protect users, systems or legal rights.

12. Liability

Nothing in these terms excludes or limits liability for death or personal injury caused by negligence, fraud or fraudulent misrepresentation, or any liability that cannot lawfully be excluded or limited.

Subject to that statement, NGPFA is not responsible for loss caused by reliance on general website information that should reasonably have been confirmed, third-party decisions or services, user misuse, events outside our reasonable control, or loss of data, profit, opportunity, reputation or business arising from use of a free public-information website, to the extent the law permits.

These terms do not affect mandatory consumer rights or any separate rights under a programme agreement.

13. Privacy and cookies

Our Privacy Notice explains how personal information is used. Our Cookie Policy and Cookie Settings explain the technologies used on the website and how optional choices can be managed.

14. Suspending access and reporting misuse

We may restrict access or take appropriate legal, safeguarding or technical action where these terms are breached. Suspected misuse, impersonation, intellectual-property infringement or unsafe conduct should be reported to academy@ngpfa.com. Safeguarding concerns should be reported using the Safeguarding page and must not be delayed because of a website complaint.

15. Changes to these terms

We may update these terms to reflect changes to the website, the organisation or the law. The current version and effective date will be published on the website. Continued use after publication means the updated terms apply from that point.

16. Governing law and courts

These terms and any non-contractual dispute relating to the website are governed by the law of England and Wales. The courts of England and Wales will have jurisdiction, subject to any mandatory right a consumer has to bring proceedings elsewhere in the United Kingdom.

17. Contact and complaints

Questions or complaints about the website can be sent to academy@ngpfa.com or to the registered office above. A privacy complaint should be clearly identified as a data protection complaint so that the process in the Privacy Notice can be followed.
